Re: dinitrochlorobenzene (DNCB)

To Whom it may concern:

As a concerned individual relating to the "state of emergency" re: HIV and AIDS, I have researched the subject of DNCB and have applied the DNCB solution to my skin.

The DNCB solution was applied to approximately one square inch on my inner forearm. I had a reaction similar to that of a smallpox vaccination with itching and slight discharge of clear liquid. I applied some over-the-counter Bactine spray and covered the area with a patch. I had no other side effects other than a pink color spot on my inner forearm that almost faded completely. It has been approximately thirty days since my application of DNCB.

To me the slight discomfort is a small price to pay to build up one's immune system.

Thank you for your review and approval.
